SOCIOLOGY (SOC)

SOC151 Introduction to Sociology (3 course hours)
Reviews principles, concepts, history and major approaches to the study of society. Students will examine the influence of culture, social structure, socialization, group life, social class and other social influences.

SOC151H Intro to Sociology - Honors (3 course hours)
Reviews principles, concepts, history and major approaches to the study of society. Students will examine the influence of culture, social structure, socialization, group life, social class and other social influences.
REGISTRATION: This section is designed for students admitted into the Judson Honors Program only
Intended for Honors Program students only

SOC220 Social Problems (3 course hours)
This course examines how culture, social structure and social processes contribute to the problems in the society. Various strategies and interventions used to solve the different social problems in the groups to which adult students belong, are specifically reviewed and evaluated.

SOC296 Sociology Internship I (1-3 course hours)
A supervised experience designed and tailored by the student and the program's coordinator. Requires placement in clinic, agency, residential facility, school or appropriate equivalent.
Per of Instruc Required
Pre-requisites: SSC281
Course offered: on demand

SOC496 Sociology Internship II (1-3 course hours)
A supervised experience designed and tailored by the student and the program's coordinator. Requires placement in clinic, agency, residential facility, school or appropriate equivalent.
Per of Instruc Required
Pre-requisites: SSC281
Course offered: on demand